ARE YA READY FOR SOME ACTION, KIDDOS?!

We know you are! This is KZ's ULTRA-AWESOME VERSUS SPESH so some high-octane coolness is about to go down! And with Captain America: Civil War on the movie horizon, you can deffo revel in the entertainment that superhero brawlin' can bring. Have you decided which Avenger to side with? If you're all about standing up for justice, we suggest teaming up with goody-two-shoes Steve Rogers. If you're more of a tech-freak and don't mind bending the rules, Tony Stark is scouting for new recruits. No matter whose side you're on, remember that the important thing is to enjoy the flick with friends and family (and maybe a bucket of some buttery popcorn) because really, these peeps are your squad IRL and matter the most! Even if this is the VERSUS ISH, don't forget that fighting is never the answer. If you don't ever have to kick butt, then you are one kick-butt kid!

WHY SO ANG

THESE ANGRY BIRDS NEED TO TAKE A DOC K-LEB-PRESCRIBED CHILL PILL.

Welcome, Angry Birds and special guest, to KZ's first-ever anger management therapy session! Our certified Captain of Cool, Doc K-LEB, will give you advice on how to deal with your anger, so that the next time something ruffles your feathers, you can control your temper. Let's begin by introducing yourself to the group and telling us why you're here.

HI, MY NAME IS CHUCK.

I'M ALWAYS RESTLESS AND HYPERACTIVE, SO WHENEVER I'M IN A STRESSFUL SITCH ORIGETNERVOUS IPANICANDBABBLEBECAUSEILIKETODOEVERYTHINGATI00 MILESPERHOUR.WHYDOTHINGSSLOWLYWHENYOUCAN FINISHDOINGTHEMHALFTHETIME?IDLIKETORELAX BUTICAN'THELPITWHENMYBRAIN PROCESSESFASTERTHAN–

Doc K-LEB: —Thank you, Chuck! You can pause right there. It's okay to do things fast but you have to be careful or else you might lose track of time or break something. Try to focus and do things one at a time, mkay?

HEY, I'M RED.

I GET EASILY ANNOYED WHEN SOME GOOSE DOES SOMETHING DISGUSTING LIKE SNEEZE INTO MY POPCORN WHILE I'M WATCHING A MOVIE, OR WHEN A PIPSQUEAK USES MY HOUSE AS A TARGET WALL FOR SOCCER PRACTICE, OR WHEN I SEE A SMUG SMILE AND HEAR IRRITATING NOISES...EUGH! I TRY TO KEEP MY COOL BUT MOST OF THE TIME I JUST WANT TO HULK OUT, Y'KNOW? ALSO, I ALWAYS FEEL INVISIBLE. I'M REALLY FUN TO BE WITH, I THINK. CHICKS JUST DON'T SEE THAT!

Doc K-LEB: Embrace your inner weirdo, Red, 'coz that's what makes you special! As for your raging outbursts, try thinking about your fave food. That might help ya simmer down.

IRY?
HELLO, EVERYBODY! I'M MATILDA.
I GET SUPER-STRESSED BY, ER, STRESS! I MANAGE MY ANGER THROUGH MOVEMENTS, BUT EVERY NOW AND THEN I LOSE MY COOL WHEN SOMETHING REALLY UPSETS ME. AND WHEN I'M STRESSED OUT BIG TIME, I SHOOT FIREBALLS OUT OF MY BUTT. YEAH, SO DON'T MESS WITH ME! HAHAHA!
Doc K-LEB: Exercising is good for the mind and body, Matilda, so keep it up! Pair it with a balanced diet—lay off the beans—and you're golden.
I'M HERE BECAUSE I HAVE A PROBLEM. I'M A TICKING TIME BOMB. THE LITTLEST THINGS FRUSTRATE ME LIKE WHEN I GET SURPRISED OR I CAN'T DO A YOGA POSE PROPERLY. WHEN I GET UPSET, I HAVE BEEN KNOWN TO BLOW UP, LIKE, KABOOM. I TOTES RAGE QUIT, MAN. IT'S EMBARRASSING. SNIFFS
Doc K-LEB: There, there, Bomb. pats Acknowledging you have a problem is the first step to overcoming it. Take my advice: Find time to chillax so that you don't always feel like a jitterbug. While you're taking a dip in a pool or beach, ask a friend to help you get used to getting surprised. In case you blow up, everyone around you will be safe.
GREETINGS! THEY CALL ME LEONARD AND I'M A PIG.
I'M A GREAT LEADER BUT I GO BEAST MODE WHEN MY LAZY LACKEYS ARE CLUMSY; SOMETIMES I CAN'T HELP BUT HIT THEM WITH A PLUNGER! ANYWAY, I HOPE YOU CAN HELP ME. ALSO, WHERE DO YOU KEEP ALL THE EGGS?
Doc K-LEB: Good that you can join us, Leonard. Violence is not the answer. Try your best not to get physical. Channel all your pent-up emotions into doing something creative or participating in a sport. Oh, and sorry, we don't stash any eggs here.

DIGITAL TAKEDOWN

LADIES AND GENTS! THERE'S AN EPIC BATTLE BREWING AMONG DIGMON ADVENTURE TRI'S PIXEL PETS. FIND OUT WHO'S THE STRONGEST AMONG THE DIGIDESTINED'S 'MONS.

BATTLE 1

TAICHI AND GREYMON

We start things off with some sibling rivalry between big bro Taichi and li'l sis Hikari. Gatomon leaps toward Greymon and uses his Neko Kick move but Greymon counters it using his Great Horn Attack.

Winner: Greymon
Gatomon is fast but Greymon has the firepower and endurance to come out on top.

HIKARI AND GATOMON

SORA AND BIRDRAMON

Birdramon takes off into the skies in order to get away from Togemon. Sneaky bird! The cactus Digimon tries to bring the flaming bird back to the ground by shooting at it using its Needle Spray attack. Epic fail! Birdramon does its Meteor Wing attack and ultimately defeats Togemon.

Winner: Birdramon
Togemon hits harder than Birdramon but (sorry!) Birdramon has superior air skills.

MIMI AND TOGEMON

JO AND GOMAMON

Gomamon dives into a lake and uses the Marching Fishes move to set up a sneak attack. Kabuterimon isn't threatened by the tiny Digimon. He quickly unleashes his Electro Shocker into the lake. It's a direct hit, ladies and gentlemen!

Winner: Kabuterimon
Since Gomamon is a low-level Digimon, it didn't have a chance against a big, hulking opponent like Kabuterimon.

KOUSHIRO AND KABUTERIMON

TAKERU AND ANGEMON

Angemon uses a strong wind attack called the Omni Typhoon, which instantly limits the opponent's movement. Garurumon then fights back using Freeze Fang, encasing Angemon in ice. Yamato's Digimon uses his signature move, Garuru Thrust, and hits Angemon with his blazing tail, sending his winged foe flying.

Winner: Garurumon
Angemon isn't going anywhere after Garurumon freezes him solid.

YAMATO AND GARURUMON

BATTLE 5

TAICHI AND GREYMON

Kabuterimon uses his Beetle Horn Attack while Greymon stands his ground and preps for his Great Horn Attack. As their horns clash, Greymon sidesteps and uses Tail Crash. The Digimon finishes the enemy with another Great Horn Attack.

Winner: Greymon
Kabuterimon and Greymon may seem evenly matched, but the latter can use any body part as a weapon.

BATTLE 6

SORA AND BIRDRAMON

Garurumon hits Birdramon with Fox Fire and sends him crashing down. Garurumon follows up with another Fox Fire aaand Birdramon is on fiyah!

Winner: Garurumon
Birdramon may have aerial advantage but once Garurumon finds a way to bring her down to the ground, it's an insta-lose for the feathered Digimon.

YAMATO AND GARURUMON

THE FINAL BATTLE

TAICHI AND WARGREYMON

Saved the best for last, bros! We've got the final battle between best buds and their upgraded Digimon. Metalgarurumon uses Giga Cross Freezer, launching multiple missiles toward Wargreymon. The latter quickly counters with Great Tornado by spinning and launching himself at his enemy. Metalgarurumon blocks the attack and uses Cocytus Breath, exhaling freezing air at Wargreymon. Wargreymon hits back with his final Gaia Force attack, and causes an explosion that knocks both 'Mons out.

Winner: Draw
It's a tie! Wargreymon and Metalgarurumon are both evenly matched. Good job, dudes! Wargreymon and Metalgarurumon are the strongest Digimon around.

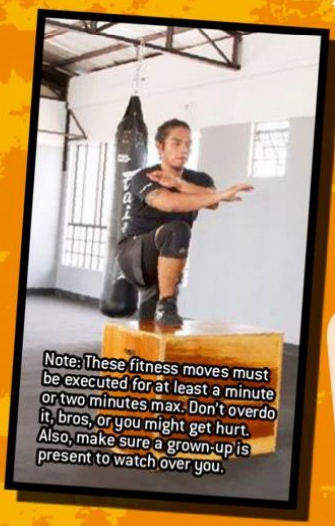
FORGE MARTIAL FITNESS' COACH JERICHO VIEJO SCHOOLS KZ ON HOW TO MAKE LIKE OUR FAVE TEKKEN FIGHTERS WITH SOME INTENSE (BUT TOTES FUN) WARRIOR CONDITIONING EXERCISES.

JAB STRAIGHT COMBO AND ROUND KICK

IF YOU WANNA TRAIN LIKE: Steve Fox and Jin Kazama
When punching, push from your foot, twist your body, and release your punching hand. To execute a round kick, swing your rear leg in a circular motion while lifting your front foot's heel. Don't forget to point the toes of your kicking foot so you can boost your leg power. Better start training now if you wanna be as strong as Steve and Jin.



Note: These fitness moves must be executed for at least a minute or two minutes max. Don't overdo it, bros, or you might get hurt. Also, make sure a grown-up is present to watch over you.

WARRIOR CONDITIONING: IS THIS LEGIT?

"Our Warrior Conditioning Class is an up-and-down intensity circuit program which aims to improve a person's capability to perform martial arts. It's mainly focused on power, endurance, energy, and energy return."
— Coach Jericho

SWORD STRIKING

IF YOU WANNA TRAIN LIKE: Yoshimitsu
Choose a wep from the gym's wide array of wooden swords and position yourself in front of the tires. You don't need to wield the sword in a flashy manner; instead, swing the sword straight at the target and strike the tires on its sides. Hone your sword skills to convince your coach to teach you some of Yoshi's weirdest techniques like the Indian Stance (healing move) and the Manji Dragonfly (flying move)! LOL joke!

KETTLEBELL SWING

IF YOU WANNA TRAIN LIKE: Marduk
Bend your knees while swinging the kettlebell up to chest level. Straighten your knees and stance as the kettlebell goes up. Swing it down again while bending your knees. Rinse and repeat. This exercise improves your arm strength, which is vital to Marduk's Vale Tudo fighting style of savage throws, takedowns, and submission moves.

TIRE SLAM

IF YOU WANNA TRAIN LIKE: King or Armor King
First, place a rubber tire between your legs, locking it at the knees. Slightly bend your knees so you can grab the tire, then stand straight and lift it over your head. From there, slam the tire to the ground, slightly bending your knees once again. What better way to practice King's Power Bomb throw, right?

FLOOR SPRINT

IF YOU WANNA TRAIN LIKE: Marshall Law
This floor exercise is perfect for strengthening those leg muscles. Position yourself as if you're about to do a push-up, then alternate lifting your knees to your chest as if you're running in place. This will improve your legs' speed and endurance so you can unleash those swift kung fu kicks! Hi-yah!

FEATHERED FIEND

One wicked winged creature becomes a teenage girl's pet peeve.

The cat was the first to disappear. Furbie wasn't the only one that had gone AWOL. Our neighbors were posting signs all over the village reporting missing pets—French Bulldogs, Siamese cats, and other cute four-legged friends were vanishing into thin air. Our family had always been animal lovers. Furbie was, in fact, a stray that Dad had seen shivering on the sidewalk on his way home from work. And before Furbie, there was Fido (a chubby Labrador from the local kennel), Goldfinger (a goldfish that we sadly had to flush down the toilet when it passed), and Lezzlie (the cutest Iguana ever). Dad was always bringing home animals.

Mom's gotten so used to it that she doesn't mind that me and my younger sister Penny sometimes smelled like a petting zoo. I've always liked the animals, too, but it wasn't till he brought home that strange egg from a vacation he and mom had in the Amazon that I felt super uncomfortable.

The egg looked normal, just like the ones mom cracked open to make omelets for breakfast, only it was as big as my head and reeked of rotten tomatoes. When it hatched, we were all expecting a cute, colorful parrot. As it broke through the eggshell, however, we saw that the bird was black as night with red beady eyes that resembled cherry pits. Its feathers were covered in sticky goo—slime that dripped when dad picked it up to put it on the perch he had purchased from the pet store. It squawked so loudly that Penny and I had to cover our ears.

"Gross!" was all I could say.
"Give it some time, Nida," Dad told me, "It's an exotic bird."

Exotic is an understatement, I thought to myself.

Every time I crossed its perch in our backyard, its razor sharp talons and predatory stare gave me the creeps. It didn't help that its eyes would follow me, its neck slowly turning with my every move. It had gotten unusually bigger in size in the last few weeks and I'm just glad dad locked it up in that old tool shed—out of sight, out of mind. And today, my parents are off on another one of their long trips, leaving me and Penny behind to be cared for by our annoying neighbor Mrs. Cruz, whose son Mikki is Penny's playmate.
I decided I would stay in my room and listen to some music to kill some time. Through my earphones, I could hear Penny and Mikki running around in the backyard. A few hours had passed and it wasn't till I heard Mrs. Cruz screaming that I went downstairs to see what was going on.

"Where's Mikki?" Mrs. Cruz asked Penny frantically.

"I don't know," my sister replied, "We were playing hide and seek in the yard. It was his turn to hide and I couldn't find him after counting to ten."

"Where could he be?" Mrs. Cruz panicked.

"How long has he been missing?" I asked. "I can help you look."

"I-I don't know...I'm sorry!" my little sister answered, tears starting to stream down her face. We searched every inch of the house for where a chubby 7-year-old could possibly be hiding.
I looked in my parents' bedroom closet—he wasn't there. I parted the curtains in the living room—nada! Penny and Mrs. Cruz covered the kitchen, den, and attic, but there was no Mikki in sight.

"Mikki! Where are you, son?!" Mrs. Cruz hollered, her voice cracking as she was on the verge of a panic attack.

As I tried to comfort Mrs. Cruz, the old tool shed caught my gaze. The dilapidated structure sat solemnly in the backyard and Penny was slowly walking toward its door. I had a sick feeling in my gut and quickly sprinted toward my little sister before she entered our new pet's lair.

"Stop, Penny!" I shouted, waving my hands like an airport runway supervisor.

When I reached her, I pulled her to me.

"Let me check," I said. "Go inside and give Mrs. Cruz a glass of water. She's kind of freaking out."

We shared a nervous chuckle before my sister went back into the house. I opened the door of the shed and immediately, a rancid smell of decay invaded my nostrils. The barely lit space was so dusty and covered in cobwebs that it was too late for me to catch myself when I tripped on a pile of long, sharp objects resting on the floor.
As I was picking myself up, I got hold of a roundish object that fit perfectly in the palm of my right hand. It was hard, crusty, and had the kind of gray color that only belonged to bone. It was shaped like a cat's head, only hollowed out into a perpetual state of fear.
I immediately threw the skull away, realizing that it kind of looked like Furbie. But my jaw dropped to the floor as I stared at the graveyard of animal remnants that littered the dark den.

The winged creature came out of nowhere. It was bigger than ever as it flew in my direction—beak open, talons out, and cawing like a demon from hell. Its feathers blanketed me in a morbid embrace and all I could do was let out a shrieking cry.
I wish I could've saved Furbie. I wish I could've said goodbye to my parents. I wish I could've told Penny how much she meant to me. But most of all, I wish I could've told Mrs. Cruz that I was able to find her son Mikki...or what was left of him, at least.

BOARD BASICS

Wakeboarding instructor Charlon Villafuerte gives us the lowdown on this watersport.

KNEEBOARDING

Wakeboarding noobs must try this first in order to practice and perfect their balance.

1. Remain crouched throughout the ride. Fidgeting might mess up your balance, bro!

2. Keep your arms straight and stretched out in front of you. Do this as you grip the handle connected to the cable wire. This will assure smooth sailing, er, boarding.

TO D!

GET WAY STOKED THIS SUMMER BY SLASHING THROUGH WATER AT PRADERA WAKE PARK.

WAKEBOARDING

Wakeboarding is a watersport where one rides and performs tricks on a short board while being pulled by a speedboat or a close-coursed cable.

Proper footing: heels down and toes up. Place all your weight on your heels, please. Otherwise, you'll topple over once the board is launched.

Stay low on the board. Don't stand up straight or you'll lose your balance.

Go with the flow. Or in this case, go along with the pull of the cable wire. Don't fight the force of the pull too much or you'll be thrown off your board.

BOARD MEETING

Wakeboard teacher Lon shows us some tricked-out flips.

MOMMY-FIED

IN THE SPIRIT OF MOTHER'S DAY, WE GAVE THESE POP CULTURE ICONS SOME MOM DUTIES!

MABEL PINES (GRAVITY FALLS)

Mabel looooves sweaters. She loves 'em so much that she taught her daughter how to make her own knitwear. Together, this mother and daughter tandem make the cutest, quirkiest matching sweater sets. #twinning

DORY (FINDING DORY)

Though Dory sometimes forgets the name of her little squishy fishy, she's a very loving momma. Not only does she give "whale-speak" lessons to her baby, but she also motivates her tiny tot to "just keep swimming."

BUBBLES (POWERPUFF GIRLS)

Bubbles makes sure that her child grows up to be a bonafide nature lover. They frequently visit the forest so they can talk to all kinds of critters. Side by side, the mother and son tag team do superhero stuff like saving all the animals in testing labs. #NoToAnimalTesting

BLACK WIDOW (THE AVENGERS)

Since Natasha can't have biological children, she decided to adopt a precious, young would-be Avenger from an orphanage. Everyday, she trains her kid to be just as tough and kick-butt as her so no one will make the mistake of messing with him. #ToughMomma

CHLOE (WE BARE BEARS)

Chloe keeps tabs on her kid's academic performance. She makes sure to lend a helping hand when her kid struggles with HW. But mommy Chloe knows how to have fun, too. She brings her kid over to the Bear Bros' house to hang out, chow down, and watch funny vids.

MARCELINE (ADVENTURE TIME)

Marceline is the coolest mom evah! Marcy and her li'l vampire hold jamming sessions all the time! If they've not at home rocking it out on their guitars, they're out watching concerts and having the time of their lives.

OSTRICH

The world's largest birds cannot fly, but they are strong runners. Ostriches have long, powerful legs that they can also use as a weapon when threatened by predators. Each two-toed foot has a long, sharp claw that can fatally wound an enemy. Say your prayers once an ostrich delivers a swift forward kick! Ouch!

NORTHERN CARDINAL

Nesting season particularly makes cardinals go cuckoo. They defend their territory and feeding areas against rivals by attacking at full speed and relentlessly pecking at their enemy. Cardinals are so competitive, they even attack their own reflections in windows or mirrors! So, when they come tapping on your windows, don't open up. Put some newspaper on the window in order to block out their reflection instead.

RL ANGRY BIRDS

IF YOU GET THE CHANCE TO SEE THESE AMAZING AVIANS IN THE WILD, TREAT THEM WITH RESPECT, AND KEEP YOUR DISTANCE WHEN THEY START TO DISPLAY HOSTILE BEHAVIOR!

MAGNIFICENT FRIGATEBIRD

Look out for this real pirate bird! This excellent flier is known as the man-o'-war bird because it has a habit of catching other seabirds and shaking them in order to make its victims throw up their food. (Ew!) A frigatebird has a wingspan of over seven feet and is especially cranky during breeding season. This is one bird bully you deffo don't wanna mess with.

LAPPET-FACED VULTURE

Vultures go cray during feeding time. The Lappet-faced vulture, in particular, is the king of the kill. It uses its strength and power to dominate other scavengers. Its huge bill can tear open the skin of a dead animal in a snap! #owned

THE FOURTH IS STRONG WITH THESE ONES

WE STALKED YOUR FAVORITE STAR WARS CHARACTERS TO SEE HOW THEY CELEBRATE MAY THE FOURTH!

CHEWBACCA

Where else would Chewie be on May the Fourth but at Han Solo's grave? The poor, grief-stricken Wookiee still misses his partner-in-crime with all his heart and fur. Every time he's in the 'hood, he visits Han's final resting place and brings flowers. Chewie also shares what he's been up to lately even if he's just making Wookiee calls to himself. D'aww!

KYLO REN

The bratty baddie stays at home polishing Grandpa Vader's old helmet. Things are going smoothly until Ben—sorry, Kylo—spots a new scratch he's never seen before. Enraged, he throws one heck of a tantrum and ends up destroying a few of his favorite books. Classic Kylo.

FINN

Finn's having a video call with his good pal Poe Dameron. Yep, this bromance is going strong! The ex-Stormtrooper and the Resistance pilot chitchat about everything under the sun—what they had for lunch, how many likes Poe's new Spacebook profile photo got, and the funniest meme Finn has seen all week. Did we mention they do this every single day? #BroGoals

REY

The kick-butt scavenger is watching a movie marathon while practicing her Jedi powers on, uh, popcorn. Rey's got tons of Jedi history and education to catch up on, so General Leia Organa lent her some home videos that might help. Hmm, those vids sure look familiar…

BB-8

Poe has given his loyal companion the day off. BB-8 is relaxing at the droid spa with his pals C-3PO and R2-D2. The astromechs get washed, oiled, and buffed to perfection. The treatment ends with a software update, so the 'bots come out good as new, both inside and out. (We gotta say, these guys are winning May the Fourth!)

LIFE HACKS

STRESS BUSTERS

TEMPER TANTRUMS

When things are not going your way...

- RELAX. Throwing a hissy fit instantly drains your energy, what with all the arm flailing and full-on ugly crying. It's not worth it, bro! Just take a break and compose yourself. If you can't say something nice, don't say anything at all.

- THINK HAPPY THOUGHTS. Close your eyes, count to 10, and think of all your fave noms (cookie dough ice cream, choco-frosted donuts, strawberry milkshakes...mmm). Breathe in and out and you'll be calm in no time.

- CHILL OUT. When you're angry, your heart rate increases, making the blood rush to your head and your face feel hot. Drink something cold to cool off.

VGAME FAIL

Press "start" on these pro tips.

- DOUBLE CHECK(POINT). Remember to always save your progress. If your computer suddenly crashes or—Eeep!—the Internet connection gets cut, you won't have to start from the beginning.

- TAP OUT. If you're getting annoyed because you can't defeat the final boss, keep your chill. Have a snack to distract yourself. When you've calmed down, log in again and give it your best shot!

- LEVEL UP. Practice makes perfect, bruh. Improve your gaming skills by level grinding. After you've mastered the strategies, hopefully you can defeat the baddie once and for all.

TOUGH HOMEWORK

Nobody said this was gonna be easy.

- DON'T PANIC! Try not to think about all the stuff you have to get done tonight. Think positive (You can do it, dude!) and do your homework one at a time.

- REST. Take 10- to 15-minute breaks every hour in order to recharge your energy levels to full capacity. Doing so will help your brain process and retain information better.

Stress Hacker: Kaye Robles Illustrations: Carlos Cabanlig

CKS

ARE YOU STRESSED? RELAX, DUDE! WE SHOW YOU HOW TO STAY COOL.

RS EDITION

NO INTERNET OR CABLE

A.K.A. THE WORST THING EVER.

- GET PERSONAL. Hang out with your friends or siblings instead of just chatting with them on the computer.

- GET SOME FRESH AIR. Soak in the sunshine and smell that fresh, cool breeze. Ask permish from the 'rents to go outside and play with friends. You can totally have fun offline, too!

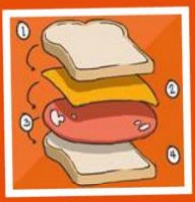
- CALL TECH SUPPORT. Okay, seriously, if you think something's wrong with the connection, immediately tell your mom and dad so they can call someone to get it fixed. #Priorities

FOOD PROBS

So you've got zero chill when there's zero noms? Don't fret!

- RAID THE KITCHEN. There's no way your mom would ever leave the fridge or pantry unstocked. Make sure you've searched every nook and cranny before you start panicking.

- DIY SNACKAGE. Ask mom to teach you how to prep your own snacks, so next time, you can make your own goodies. Check out our NomCore section for yummy ideas! (Yep, we totally went there.)



BAD GRADES

Report card day—oh the horror!

- DON'T OVERTHINK IT. Quit worrying about how mad your parents will be come report card day. Instead, prepare a convincing speech in case the 'rents want an explanation.

- LIVE AND LEARN. What's done is done, my friend. If you got a goose egg, try to do better next time. The important thing is that you learn from your mistakes.

- COMFORT THE PARENTALS. Keep yourself busy with chores (or homework). If you see disappointment on their faces, appease them with PB sandwiches. That's right, win them over with sweetness!

- DISTRACTIONS, BE GONE! Disable game alerts on your gadgets and quit the Internet for now. The sooner you finish homework, the sooner you can get back to the fun stuff.

- SUMMON SOME BACKUP. Don't be afraid to ask for help! If mom or dad can't assist you, maybe your sibs can. You can also ask a classmate to come over so you can help each other out.

J.A.R.V.I.S., GIVE ME A SUIT!

If you think Iron Man's gloves are cool, wait till you see the Iron Man Dual Laser Glove, a working replica of the Avenger's weaponized glove! Invented by Patrick Priebe, this laser gauntlet is equipped with two lasers (blue and red) and a motorized top shell that can shoot a mini wep. And get this: the blue laser can actually burn stuff. Shut up and take our money!

Holy homemade Iron Man suit! James Hobson, a Canadian engineer, is developing exoskeletons that allow the wearer to lift super heavy objects, just like Iron Man. In one of his vlogs, James demonstrates how he was able to easily lift a Mini Cooper's rear end while wearing one of his designs. This dude is taking cues from Tony Stark because next on his agenda is to create a full-body exoskeleton that can actually hover!

Mark Zuckerberg, the billionaire behind Facebook, is planning to create an A.I. system like Tony Stark's J.A.R.V.I.S. (Just A Rather Very Intelligent System). He said he wants to start simple and program his hi-tech assistant to adjust the temperature, lights, and sound system in his house via voice command. As if that's not awesome enough, Mark said he'll eventually include a facial recognition application that can automatically let in authorized house guests! Sounds like another brilliant invention, dude!

HOW TO DRAW JUDY HOPPS

STEP 1: HOP ON!

Lightly sketch the form of Judy using a pencil. Then, draw an irregular circle for her face, a semicircle for her police hat, and two ovals for her bunny ears. Sketch a curved rectangle for her body, then draw small cylinders and circles for her arms and paws. Her legs are shaped like upside down cones while her feet look like pebbles. Add crosshairs on her head to mark the eyeline and the center of her face.

STEP 2: HAT TRICK

Draw Judy's eyes using three concentric circles then sketch a small, inverted triangle for her nose at the center of her face. Draw her slightly open mouth and add a curved line around it for her snout. Draw more details on her face to make it look furry. Next, draw the curved lines and a small rectangle in the middle of her hat. Finally, draw an oval inside each of her bunny ears.

STEP 3: COOL UNIFORM

Draw the collar below her chin and add vertical lines from her shoulders down to the hem of her vest. Don't forget to add two horizontal lines at the bottom.

STEP 4: ARM-AZING!

Now draw Judy's bent left arm and the visible part of her right arm. Sketch her paws using small circles, then add her arm gloves last.

*Artist based his drawing on the character from Zootopia

STEP 5: CUTE LI'L BUNNY

Draw her hips and pants then sketch a small circle on each knee for her knee pads. Her ankle socks look like a pair of L's. Draw small circles for her toes and finally, add her fluffy tail last.

STEP 6: REPORTING FOR JUDY, ER, DUTY!

Trace over all your pencil marks using a pen. After the ink has dried completely, erase all your pencil marks and add color. Judy's fur is gray, and the skin inside her ears is pink. Her police shirt is blue, her pants are dark blue, her arm gloves and ankle socks are navy blue, while her vest is orange with yellow reflector lines. Lastly, her knee pads are dark gray. Use different shades of color to add depth to your art. Off you go, Officer Hopps!

YOU GOT GAME

DID YOU KNOW?
Lucario, a Fighting type Pokémon, is the main mascot of the Pokkén Tournament. Sorry, Pikachu!

POKKÉN TOURNAMENT

PLAY IT ON Wii U GENRE FIGHTING RATING G

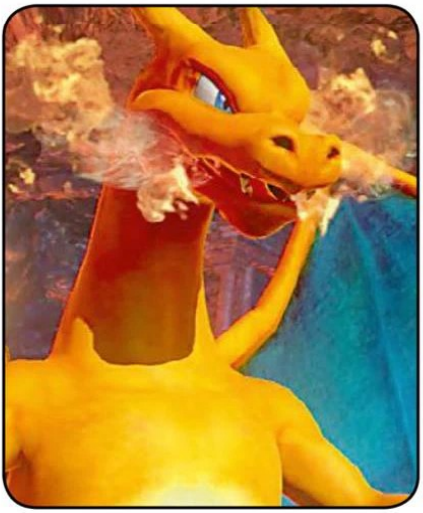
Ever wish you could play as a Pokémon in an actual battle? Now's your chance!



THIS VGAME MASHUP IS SAVAGE!

What happens when you put the masterminds behind the Tekken series in charge of creating a Pokémon fighting game? You get Pokkén Tournament, an adorkable fighting game that packs the same punch as the popular fighting series. This monster brawler has simpler button combos than the Tekken games—100% noob-friendly!

GOTTA BEAT 'EM ALL

Here's how a battle round plays out.

The game mechanics of Pokkén Tournament are a combo of Tekken's up-close-and-personal fisticuffs and the long-range projectile-flinging antics of most anime-style arena fighters. Two Pokémon will duke it out in a fighting ring, and you must use your 'mon's unique abilities in order to emerge victorious! A bunch of Support Pokémon will assist you in battle by either attacking your enemy or boosting your fighter's abilities. Fill up your power meter A.K.A. Resonance Gauge so you can use special, super-effective attacks called Synergy Bursts!

WHO'S THAT POKÉMON?

Meet the toughest (and cuddliest) fighters this side of the arena.

Pokkén Tournament has a solid selection of combat-ready playable Pokémon, from favorites like Pikachu and Lucario to odd picks such as Chandelure and Weavile. As for non-playable Support Pokémon, you can choose from the likes of Eevee, Diglett, Lapras, and even Dragonair to back you up during battle! To top off the roster, Pokkén even has exclusive versions of Pikachu and Mewtwo: Pikachu Libre in pro wrestling garb uses a shooting star as a super attack, while Shadow Mewtwo looks like a nightmarish versh of Mewtwo, who also happens to be the game's final boss! (Dun, dun, dun!)

DID YOU KNOW?

For the arcade version of Pokkén Tournament, a player must use a wired controller pad instead of a traditional joystick and buttons setup!

TAG, YOU'RE IT!

Check out these two Tekken characters and their Pokémon counter parts.

Tekken Trainer: Heihachi Mishima = Pokémon Partner: Pikachu

Pick three characters for your team that you can switch around during battle. Is your pick running on low HP? Then quickly tag another character to replace him. #SquadGoals

PIRATE TALK

GAMER'S HELP DESK

Harold Saracanlao

In Marvel Avengers Alliance, how can I get more command points?

There are several ways to earn Command Points (CP). The easiest way is by logging in every day and claiming the Daily Reward. Every time you log in, the Command Point multiplier increases, so you have more chances of getting lotsa CP just by playing the game daily. You can also earn more CP by getting five stars on missions, completing tasks, and defeating bosses in chapter missions. Good luck!

TIP TRIP

Hit the brakes, dudes! K-Zoner Ivan Martinez has a tip for Forza Horizon 2 racers.

If you're playing Forza Horizon 2 for the first time, use the Automatic Transmission controls. Using Manual Transmission controls, in which you manually control the gearshift, can be confusing for noobs.

READER REVIEW

KZer Paolo Cruz shares why Rocket League is outta-this-world amazeballs!

GAMEPLAY
"Imagine playing soccer using jet-powered cars! You can use these cars as players and do flips, dives, and jumps in order to score goals and execute defensive strategies. Don't worry about hitting the ball too hard. There are force fields that keep the ball within the playing arena. Deffo cool!"

GRAPHICS
"The graphics are insane! Playing the game feels like you're watching a grand futuristic racing event with bright lights, a large audience, and sleek cars."

REPLAY
"In Rocket League, a soccer game lasts about five minutes. The game is so addictive, you'll spend hours playing it! You can collect different car customizations like car models, decals, wheels, animations, and hats (for your car)!"

SOUND
"The techno music is upbeat. You'll also hear the cheers and roars of the audience. Every time you use the boosts, you'll feel like the wind is blowing in your face 'cause the sound effects are so realistic! It's like you're actually inside the arena."

OVERALL
"It's a fast-paced game that's easy to play but totes difficult to master. The aerial moves are tricky to perfect, but overall, Rocket League is so much fun to play."

DYK? Rocket League is considered a legit e-sport. Major League Gaming started the first official Pro Rocket League playoffs in March 2016.
